

leeds learning disability Photography competition

2015

Help us to celebrate this year's Leeds Learning Disability Week by taking part in the photography competition.

As last year's photography competition was such a success we are running it again. We had some fantastic entries last year and judging was very tough. We know you will impress us again this year with your fantastic photographs. So get snap happy and start sending us your photos!

About the competition

We are running the competition to help celebrate Learning Disability and encourage people with learning disabilities to show us what matters to them about their lives.

You may enter up to 10 photos.
There are 3 categories

Artistic and creative

Outdoors and nature

Happy and joyful

All you have to do is email your picture to yourhealthmatters.lypft@nhs.net

You can view your entry and everyone else's at

Rules

- A name and contact address must be provided.
- Please make sure you tell us the title of the picture and which category you are entering your picture into (artistic and creative, outdoors and nature, happy and joyful)

- All entries must be from a person with learning disabilities. You can either be the person who took the photo or be the person in the photo.

- Make sure you tell us who it was that took the photo.
- You may enter up to 10 photos.
- Photographs featuring children will not be accepted.
- Make sure that you have permission before you take a photograph of anyone or any place.

- Photographs which we decide are upsetting or inappropriate will not be accepted.
- By entering a photograph you agree to it being placed on display as part of Leeds Learning Disability Week and websites linked to the week. For example, calendars, art work or posters.

- All photos must be taken within the last 12 months.
- The closing date for entry is Monday 1st June 2015.

Many thanks, and best of luck everyone!
